Moira joined Wilson's in September 2008 and is head of the Charities Department.

Moira is an expert in charity law. She advises on the establishment of charities, trustee powers and duties, schemes, taxation, grant-making, fundraising, mergers, the disposal of land and buildings, dealing with the Charity Commission, constitutional and good governance issues. Moira advises charities, trustees and senior staff, public bodies and businesses based throughout England and Wales. She also advises non UK resident donors, charities and not for profit organisations on their dealings with charities in the UK.

In Chambers Guide Moira is ranked in Band 1 of the "Best of the UK" charity lawyers and is praised for being a 'top notch lawyer who is "more than likely to step up to the challenge"'. She is known for her "clear style and considerable experience" and in Legal 500 2013 "her unsurpassed knowledge" about charity law.

Moira was also ranked in the 'Top 5' in her field in the 2012 Citywealth Leaders list, as recommended by other professional advisers, clients and charitable organisations.

She is a member of the Charity Law Association, the Charity Finance Group and the Law Society. She frequently lectures on charity law issues and has written a number of articles for, amongst others, PLC, Charity Finance and Governance magazine.

Moira was recently interviewed by Fran Abrams as part of the BBC Radio 4 programme 'File on 4' on the discussion surrounding charities and tax avoidance, specifically the Cup Trust.
